

I feel that this petition is un-warranted. The petitioners are only serving themselves due in part to their particular pursuits. Since its inception, amateur radio has had no particular bandwidth restrictions. By bowing to the special interest groups, and enacting a policy such as the one mentioned by the petitioners, it will only serve to create more dysfunction among the amateur bands. Radio is not only a way to convey messages, it is also an art! Rules should not be made to bind the hands of the artisans, but to keep those able to perform it, (licensees), on a proper course.
